    4. Andrea Thistle, Valley Open Bible Fellowship
    5. Mike Rochin, New Hope on the Last Frontier
    6. AlexAnna Salmon, Iquigig Tribal Council
    7. Jim Crockett, Bean's Café
    8. Heather Harris, Alaska Youth and Parent Foundation
    9. Diana Jeska, Homer Community Food Pantry
    10. Mariya Lovishchuk, The Glory Hole
    11. George Olanna, Nome Community Center
    12. Dana Paperman, Seward Senior Center
    13. Jo Dawson, State of Alaska Child Nutrition Services
    14. Sharron Sigafos, AWAIC
    15. Jennifer Nieves, Catholic Social Services
    16. Patricia Salmon, Chalkyitsik Tribal Council
2. AFC Annual Meeting Member Updates – All members in attendance noted an increase in requests for their services. Additionally information about these organizations:
  - a. Andrea Thistle (Valley Open Bible Fellowship): Since January, VOBF Community Café has double the number of people they are serving.

- b. Mariya Lovishchuk (Glory Hole): The Glory Hole numbers have remained fairly steady, but the food bank in Juneau has seen drastic increases in requests for assistance.
- c. Robin Stilwell (Food Bank of Alaska): FBA is currently working with the legislature, the Governor and other state agencies to get food to Western Alaska.
- d. Diana Jeska (Homer Community Food Pantry): As the agency grows, word of their services are getting out and they have been seeing steady increases.
- e. Dana Paperman (Seward Senior Center): The senior center just received a $5,000 grant from a veterans group to assist in feeding people this winter.
- f. Linda Swarner (Kenai Peninsula Food Bank): In the past year, there has been an increase of 1,000 that are accessing commodity foods from the food bank and they have now surpassed more than 1 million pounds through their agency in the previous year.
- g. Jim Crockett (Bean's Café): The café has seen a 27 percent increase in meals served. On average, the café serves more than 900 meals a day.
- h. George Olanna (Nome Community Center): Surprisingly, the pantry has seen a reduction in numbers. Transportation is key for this organization as the increasing transportation cost is severely hampering their ability to serve people in need.
- i. Heather Harris (Alaska Youth and Parent Foundation): AYPF has seen a steady number of teens that need food assistance, but their total need is increasing.
- j. Mike Rochin (New Hope on the Last Frontier): New Hope is seeing an average of 30 new clients every week.
- k. Jo Dawson (State of Alaska): Both TEFAP and SFSP are seeing increases this year.
- l. AlexAnna Salmon (Igiugig Tribal Council): More and more village residents are asking for assistance in comparison to just a few months ago.
- m. Jennifer Nieves (Catholic Social Services): St. Francis food pantry has seen a 37 percent increase and just recently added evening hours to address the needs of the working poor.
- n. Sharon (AWAIC): As the economy continues to slump, the number of domestic violence cases in the area are on the rise.
- o. Patricia Salmon (Chalkyitsik Tribal Council): Considering the weather and the economy, the village seems to be doing fairly well.

3. AFC News – Kerri Burrows, Alaska Food Coalition

- a. Mini-Grants
  - 1. Winners – This year, we did 13 grants to agencies for food purchase or transportation costs only. We had a rural focus and ended up giving out just over half to rural agencies.
  - 2. Evaluation of Process – All in the meeting agreed that having a review committee comprised of members was more beneficial for the agencies and suggested doing it again. Mike motioned to keep the mini-grant process the same for FY2010. Dana seconded. None were opposed.
- b. Budget
- c. Hunger Study Update

4. FY08 Review of Goals and FY09 Proposal of New Goals and Objectives
5. Questions
6. Other business, concerns or issues
7. Wrap-up
